SCHOLARSHIPS	SCHEDULE A, PART III - EXPLANATION FOR LINE 3A	Budweiser Conservation Scholarship Program - Evaluation Criteria The Budweiser Conservation Scholarship Program has been established to support and promote innovative research or study that seeks to respond to today's most pressing conservation issues. Ten scholarships of up to $10,000 each will be awarded to eligible graduate and undergraduate students who are poised to make a significant contribution to the field of conservation. Scholarship funds may be used to cover students' expenses for tuition, fees, books, room and board and other direct expenses related to their studies. Awards will be made based on merit and will take into consideration that student's academic achievements and their ability and commitment to develop innovative solutions that are designed to address real and pressing issues affecting fish, wildlife and plant conservation efforts. Objective To identify 10 scholarship recipients who are well-qualified and deserving of the award based on the following criteria, and who collectively represent a diversity of academic and professional interests in the field of conservation. Criteria 1) Knowledge of conservation issues, 2) Merits of research/study proposal based on its - Significance to conservation field - Feasibility and - Overall quality, 3) Innovativeness of the research/study, 4) Academic achievements, and 5) Commitment to leadership in conservation field. These criteria are not intended to be applied on an equivalent basis, rather, the objective is to consider the criteria in assessing the relative strengths of each candidate with respect to their ability and commitment to develop innovative solutions to significant fish, wildlife, and plant conservation issues. Rich Guadagno Memorial Scholarship Fund The Scholarship The Rich Guadagno Memorial Wildlife/Natural Resources Scholarship Fund provides three scholarships a year for natural resources students attending Humboldt State University and the College of the Redwoods in California who are interested in working with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service at the Humboldt Bay National Wildlife Refuge and surrounding areas on research projects. The scholarship program was established by the Foundation to honor the memory of Rich Guadagno, who died in the crash of Flight 93 on 9/11/2001. He served as a U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service Refuge Manager at Humboldt Bay Refuge in California, and worked as staff at other refuges around the country. He was a committed conservation professional and exceptional human being who was very interested in encouraging young people to choose conservation as their careers. The Purpose of the Scholarship The scholarship fund is aimed at achieving three goals. First, it would link the Refuge more closely with the University, connecting students with refuge biologists that would help them with research projects where data are needed on or around the Refuge. Second, it would also link the Refuge more closely with the local communities by involving the College of the Redwoods (a Community College), Rotary Clubs, Chamber of Commerce and others who may wish to be involved in this project. These were both very important goals of Rich's when he worked at the refuge. Finally, and most importantly, it would memorialize Rich by inspiring young students to pursue their passion in conservation, something Rich had an abundance of and which we think would be a tribute worthy of Rich. Description of the Scholarship Fund Three scholarships each year are awarded for at least the next 10 years (depending on fund availability) - One $500 scholarship is awarded to a student at the College of the Redwoods Community College, located across the road from the Refuge to assist freshmen or sophomores in pursuing conservation studies - A second $1000 scholarship is awarded to a senior at Humboldt State University for them to conduct their senior thesis project - A third $2000 scholarship/grant is awarded to a graduate student to work on their Master's Degree research. These scholarships will contribute to the student's tuition or other material costs. Who would be eligible to apply. Students who are interested in a career in natural resources management and have a good grade point average in sciences (2.75 or higher) will be encouraged to apply. They will also be given extra bonus points if they have already volunteered for some community service. The senior and graduate school applicants will need to propose a research project that they will conduct at the Refuge or surrounding area as part of the application process. The applicants need to demonstrate their commitment to conservation, submit a written essay about their interests and a proposal describing their research project, as well as two letters of reference, and their transcripts. If awarded, they will conduct the work and submit a report to the Foundation and U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, and will be required to make a presentation at the community level. How the information is disseminated/application process. Posters/descriptions announcing the scholarship opportunity are available at the Financial Aid Departments of the University and College. The Foundation and U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service will post it on our websites along with the application form. The Service will be the single point of contact to collect the applications, copy them and submit to the Foundation and Selection Committee to streamline the process. Applications will be due by the end of November of each year. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service host a "Scholarship Orientation Day" at the Refuge for those wishing to apply. Potential applicants visit the Refuge on the orientation day, learn about the Refuge and its resources and some of the Refuge's research needs, and be able to ask questions about how to apply for the scholarship. Refuge staff will be available to answer these questions and perhaps lead some tours/walks through the Refuge Selection Process. The Selection Committee has the following representatives - National Fish and Wildlife Foundation - U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service - Humboldt State University - College of the Redwoods - Chamber of Commerce or other community supporter - Member of the Guadagno family. The selection committee meets each year around January to review the applications. Successful applicants will be awarded their scholarships in February prior to end of the school year. Funds management and fundraising. Rich's Conservation Fund at the Foundation currently has a balance of about $60,000 from donations made over the past two years and the Foundation's federal funds. Additional donations to the scholarship fund will occur over time. We will encourage the local Rotary Club and others to conduct an annual scholarship fund drive which will continue to keep the community aware of Rich's contribution to conservation every year and will add additional funds to the scholarship fund over time. This will allow us to extend the life of the scholarship fund beyond the first 10-12 years and perhaps expand the number and types of scholarships awarded over time. The Foundation will continue to match the funds raised through private donations to increase the amount available. 2007 National Wildlife Refuge System Centennial Scholarship Program On March 14, 1903 the National Wildlife Refuge System was created when President Theodore Roosevelt signed an Executive Order to establish Pelican Island as a bird reservation along the central Atlantic coast of Florida. In 2003, the National Wildlife Refuge System celebrated 100 years of conserving wildlife and habitat through refuges. In honor of the Refuge Centennial, The Walt Disney Company, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation are pleased to be supporting the 2007 National Wildlife Refuge System (NWRS) Centennial Scholarship Program. The NWRS Centennial Scholarship Program seeks to support students whose research will contribute toward improved management and understanding of the diverse fish, wildlife and plant resources found on our National Wildlife Refuges. Program Summary Under this competitive scholarship program, a minimum of ten scholarships will be awarded to support students' research expenses, tuition, fees, books, and room and board. Undergraduate, Master's, and Juris Doctorate students are eligible to receive a one-time award of $5,000. PhD and DVM students are eligible to receive a one-time award of $15,000. Awards will be made based on merit and will take into consideration the value of the research toward improving management and understanding of fish, wildlife and plant resources on or related to National Wildlife Refuges as well as the student's academic achievements. Eligibility To be eligible for consideration, a student must be a United States citizen or legal resident enrolled in an accredited institution of higher education in the United States pursuing a graduate or undergraduate degree (sophomores and juniors in the current academic year only) in environmental science, natural resource management, biology, public policy, education, geography, political science or related disciplines. Only those students working on a National Wildlife Refuge or whose work is directly applicable to resource management on a National Wildlife Refuge(s) are eligible. In addition to soliciting applications for research benefiting any of the 545 National Wildlife Refuges, we are seeking applications that focus on the National Wildlife Refuges that serve as "Land Management Research and Demonstration" (LMRD) areas. The LMRD areas have been established to showcase successful management techniques and to develop and validate new techniques through applied research. The list of fully established LMRD refuges includes Hanford Reach National Monument/Saddle Mountain NWR, Washington, Bosque del Apache NWR, New Mexico, Neal Smith NWR, Iowa, Rachel Carson/Parker River NWRS, Maine and Massachusetts, and National Bison Range/National Elk Refuge, Montana and Wyoming. More information on all of the refuges within the National Wildlife Refuge System can be found at http://refuges.fws.gov/. The scholarship program welcomes applications from all qualified students, including women and minority students, as one of the goals of the program is to increase diversity within the NWRS and the conservation field. Recipients are eligible for one year of scholarship support. Application Process To apply, students must complete an application form and submit an essay of no more than 1,500 words describing their research and how the work will benefit conservation efforts within the National Wildlife Refuge System. In addition, please include a title for the proposed research and a short abstract. Applicants are also encouraged to include a one- to two-page research plan as an attachment. The research plan should address the status of any approvals and/or permits that may be required to implement the project. Three letters of recommendation, including one from a National Wildlife Refuge Manager, must be submitted as part of the application package. In addition, applicants must include an official transcript from all colleges or graduate level academic institutions they have attended. The complete application package must be submitted to the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation and be postmarked no later than April 13, 2007. Selection Applications will be reviewed by a selection committee made up of representatives from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, The Walt Disney Company, the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation and, as appropriate, other professional organizations and research partners. Applicants will be evaluated based upon the quality of their proposed research and its significance to the National Wildlife Refuge System, the innovativeness of their proposed research or study, and their academic achievements. As one of the goals of this scholarship program is to increase diversity within the National Wildlife Refuge System, qualified women and minority students are encouraged to apply. An announcement of the successful scholarship recipients will be made in mid-October 2007 in conjunction with National Wildlife Refuge Week. Scholarship Conditions The award may be used only for direct research expenses, tuition, fees, books and room and board. Payments may supplement, but not duplicate, benefits from the educational institution or from other foundations, institutions or organizations. The combined benefits from all sources may not exceed the costs of tuition, fees, books, room and board, and other approved expenses as prescribed by the institution. Award recipients will be required to submit documentation approved by their educational institution that documents the student's anticipated expenses and combined financial benefits. After an award is made, any major change in the recipient's course of study requires prior approval. A scholarship may be withheld or terminated due to unsatisfactory academic performance.
