Intel Foundation Guidelines

In 1989, the Intel Foundation was formed for the purpose of developing and funding educational and charitable programs. The Intel Foundation's specific funding objectives are to:

- Improve science, math and technical education,
- Improve the effective utilization of technology in classroom teaching,
- Broaden access to technology, and
- Increase the number of people, especially women and minorities, pursuing technical careers.

Funding outside these programs area is extremely limited. However, if your program is not consistent with one of these funding objectives, you may be still be eligible for a community grant from Intel Public Affairs (see below).

More information can be found at <http://www.intel.com/education/grants/k12/grants.htm>.

Types of grants

The Intel Foundation makes two types of grants:

National Grants: Programs that are consistent with one or more of our funding objectives and which are national in scope or specifically designed as a pilot for a national program.

Community Grants: Programs that are consistent with one or more of our funding objectives and which are located in a community in the United States where Intel has a major facility (see list on back page). The Intel Foundation does NOT consider funding for local programs outside these Intel site communities.

Restrictions on Intel Foundation grants:

- We make cash grants only. We do not make donations of equipment.
- We fund specific projects. We do not make grants solely for general operating expenses.
- We make grants only to tax-exempt, nonprofit organizations. Applicants must be either an organization that has tax-exemption under IRS Code Section 501(c)(3), or a publicly funded academic institution
- We do not provide funding for:
 - Grants to individuals
 - Luncheons, dinners, auctions
 - Good-will advertising
 - Annual fund drives
 - Endowment or capital improvement campaigns
 - Projects seeking to influence elections or legislation
 - Private foundations described under IRS Code Section 509(a)
 - Organizations which promote or practice discrimination
 - Political organizations
- We generally do not provide funding for:
 - Health Sciences
 - Television/Radio production cost
 - Subsidize the creation of personal/organization Web sites
 - Environmental Sciences
 - Religious or fraternal organizations
- We will fund a specific program for up to three consecutive years. We then request that the organization take a two year interim before requesting additional funding for that program.

on-Foundation Intel Funding Sources

Intel has a major investment in communities where its employees live and work. Intel Public Affairs makes contributions of cash, equipment, and volunteers in ways that are meaningful and have the greatest impact on local communities. If your program is located in a community where Intel has a major facility, but is not eligible for a grant from the Intel Foundation, you may still be eligible for support from Intel Public Affairs.

The contributions priorities for Public Affairs differ from one Intel community to the next. The Public Affairs offices listed at the end of this document can provide information about their priorities for local contributions.

Applying for a grant from the Intel Foundation

When to apply

The Intel Foundation reviews proposals on a continuous basis throughout the year.

What to send

An application must include an Intel Grant Application Cover Sheet and proposal. The proposal should include:

1. Background (One Page Maximum)

Brief statement about your organization including:

- Mission of the organization
- The need or problem that your organization works to address
- A brief description of current programs.
- The population your organization serves

2. Project Description (Three Pages Maximum)

Brief description of the project for which you seek funding. This should include:

- Statement of the primary purpose of the project
- The population you plan to serve and how the population will benefit from the project.
- Strategies that you will employ to implement the project.
- Anticipated length of the project and the period this grant will cover

3. Evaluation (One Page Maximum)

Please explain how you will measure the effectiveness of the project. Describe:

- Your criteria for a successful program,
- The results you hope to achieve by the end of the funding period, and
- The method by which effectiveness will be measured.

4. Financial Information

- Your most recent financial statement, audited if available.
- Organization's operating budget for the current year.
- A budget for the project for which funds are requested.

5. Attachments (Four Pages Maximum)

- A list of your Board of Directors
- One-paragraph resumes of key staff who will be working on the project
- A copy of your letter from the IRS confirming tax-exempt status under IRS Code section 501(c)(3).

How to apply

If you are applying for a National Grant (see previous page for definition) for a project consistent with one or more of the funding objectives of the Intel Foundation, send the Intel Grant Application Cover Sheet and proposal to:

Intel Foundation, Mailstop: AG6-601
5200 NE Elam Young Parkway
Hillsboro, OR 97124-6497

If you are applying for a Community Grant (see previous page for definition) for a project consistent with one or more of the funding objectives of the Intel Foundation, or for a community grant from Intel Public Affairs, send the Intel Grant Application Cover Sheet and proposal to the Intel Public Affairs office in your local community:
