Related changes were also made to Part VII-B questions 1b, 5a(5), and 5b, and the transaction was properly reported on form 4720.

During the process of amending its 2004 form 990-PF, the J Paul Getty Trust discovered that a calculation error in the amount of $544 had been made in determining the expense allowance of Thomas E. Crow, one of its 5 highest paid employees. Therefore, the following changes were also made.

The Trustees may, by resolution, delegate any such powers to a committee of one or more Trustees or to other persons as permitted by law and the Trust Indenture, but the Trustees shall have continuing responsibility for any delegated matters.
- Section 2.2 ELECTION OF TRUSTEES. Trustees shall be elected and reelected by the Trustees in accordance with this Section 2.2 and Section 3.1(d) below (pertaining to the role of the Leadership Development Committee).

- (a) Number There shall be at least three (3) Trustees at all times. The Trustees may, but need not, fix a specific, higher number of Trustees. The term of a newly elected Trustee shall commence upon his or her acceptance of trusteeship, following formalities established by the Trustees. If a person who is elected Trustee does not formally accept election within sixty (60) days of election, the election shall be automatically revoked.

A Trustee may serve no more than three (3) terms. Reelection as Trustee is in the sole discretion of the Trustees.

The Role of the Board of Trustees in Overseeing Senior Management Compensation

The Compensation Committee, a standing committee composed of independent members of the Board of Trustees, establishes the terms of the President's contract and compensation, subject to the approval of the full Board of Trustees, as well as the compensation of the President's direct reports.

Under the Getty's bylaws, the Committee consists of the Chairman of the Board, any Vice Chairs, and the Chairs of the other Standing Committees of the Board of Trustees

Trustees of the J. Paul Getty Trust receive no compensation for their service but are reimbursed for travel expenses incurred in fulfilling their duties as members of the Board. In addition, Trustees are eligible to participate in a matching gift program providing matching gift funds to qualified public charities on a four to one basis up to a maximum matching amount of $60,000

The J. Paul Getty Trust Senior Management Compensation Policy

The goal of the Getty's compensation process is to pay salaries that are competitive for comparable positions at organizations similar to the Trust in activities and scope.

Each year, the performance and compensation of the President and Chief Executive Officer is reviewed and set by the Compensation Committee and the Board of Trustees in executive sessions in the absence of the President and CEO. Annual compensation decisions regarding direct reports to the President are recommended by the President and CEO to the Compensation Committee for approval

The Compensation Committee reviews and compares compensation levels for the President and his direct reports with those reported for analogous positions at comparable organizations. The Compensation Committee relies on reports of a nationally recognized, independent executive compensation consultant (Mercer Human Resources Consulting), setting forth the comparative information as to compensation at leading cultural organizations, private foundations, and universities.

The independent executive compensation consultant selects similar positions among organizations of comparable scope, scale and purpose. In the last evaluation process, conducted in May 2005, the consultant used competitive data from two market sources, broad-based published surveys and information contained in the IRS Form 990s of a custom peer group. Organizations included in the peer group are set forth in the table below All organizations in the custom peer group are not used for each position.

On average, the consultant found that the Getty's base salary program was at or slightly above the market median.

Annual compensation adjustments for other personnel are also merit based and are determined after an annual performance evaluation process conducted at the end of each fiscal year. Senior management makes recommendations to the President and CEO for salary adjustments for such employees within their organizational reporting structure, based upon ranges established in advance by the President and CEO and ratified by the Board of Trustees in the budget planning process.

Cash Compensation of Officers and Highest Paid Employees

The Getty is guided in the preparation of its annual tax return on Form 990-PF (the "990") and related compensation disclosures by advice from its tax accountants and outside tax counsel. The Getty's goal is a presentation that complies with IRS requirements and facilitates appropriate and meaningful comparisons among institutions by all interested parties.

In order to provide compensation information that would minimize distortion and be easily compared with that paid by other organizations, the Getty, beginning with the filing for fiscal year ending June 30, 2002, provided 'base salary' information in column one of the 990 and reported cash compensation other than salary in explanatory footnotes

Tables two and three provide summary information regarding cash compensation and total compensation for all officers, as well as information for the five highest paid employees other than officers, as reported in the Trust's form 990-PF tax return for fiscal years ending June 30, 2005, 2004, and 2003. Additional detail is provided in Table 4 regarding the components of cash compensation for each employee for the fiscal year ending June 30, 2005.

Cash compensation includes salary and bonuses, payments for the ERISA limitation on compensation considered for benefit calculations, housing and automobile allowances, payments for taxes due on non-qualified supplemental employee retirement benefits vested, payments for taxes due on the imputed value of other benefits, and severance payments The table also indicates if the employee received perquisites including automobile, housing, or participation in a supplemental employee retirement plan

In addition to cash compensation, the annual 990-PF requires institutions to show all forms of compensation whether paid to the employee or not and including estimates of the value of benefits such as health and welfare coverage, referred to as "total compensation"

In general, the 990-PF separates compensation into three categories. The first column contains salary, fees, bonuses, and severance payments as well as current year payment amounts reported as deferred compensation in any prior year. This column is labeled "Cash Compensation" in Table 3.

The second column of the 990-PF contains all forms of deferred compensation and future severance payments, payments to welfare benefit plans, and any amounts earned but not yet paid during the fiscal year. These amounts are shown in the column labeled "Contribution to Employee Benefit Plans and Deferred Compensation" in Table 3.

The last category of compensation required on the 990-PF includes the value of both taxable and nontaxable fringe benefits, expense account or other allowances, payments made in connection with indemnification arrangements, and the value of the personal use of housing, automobiles, or other assets owned by the organization. These figures are shown in the column labeled "Other Allowances" in Table 3. The sum of all forms of compensation is reported as "Total Compensation" in the last column of Table 3.

THE GETTY CONSERVATION INSTITUTE

The Getty Conservation Institute (GCI) works internationally to advance conservation and to encourage the preservation and understanding of the visual arts, including historic buildings and sites. The Institute serves the conservation community through scientific research, education and training, field projects, and the dissemination of research results.

In FY05, research, education, field work and dissemination of information related to international, multidisciplinary projects were initiated or continued in North and Central America, the Mediterranean region, Europe, the Middle East, and China. This included the training of workers in Tunisia in the conservation of the country's Roman mosaics, the training of Iraqi students and professionals in the use of information technology to map the country's threatened and damaged sites, and continued support for a wall paintings conservation course in China, held in conjunction with the Courtauld Institute in London.

The GCI continued to develop and promote appropriate solutions to conservation problems Ongoing work on at least seven scientific projects included the study of modern paints, the museum lighting research project, and research on the conservation of photographs.

GCI staff continued to offer their teaching services and expertise at universities and conservation centers around the country.

Public Programming

In FY05, the GCI presented seven lectures as part of its ongoing Conservation Matters series that is offered free of charge and open to professionals and the public alike. The series features an expert lineup of international speakers who bring attention to some of the most pressing issues facing the conservation of art and historic sites today.

Resources

Dissemination of information was expanded with the GCI's Conservation Teaching Resource at www.getty.edu, which makes available some of the teaching materials that have been produced and used in the GCI's courses, workshops, and field projects. The materials can be downloaded free of charge and used by educators around the world

New research materials were added to the GCI Information Center, which holds approximately 30,000 titles and 45,000 volumes. It is available to search in the Getty Research Library catalog, and borrowed through a library's interlibrary loan department.

Other resources maintained at the GCI include the comprehensive database AATA Online: Abstracts of International Conservation Literature, which is available on www.getty.edu free of charge. This major reference tool offers unprecedented access to over 70 years worth of conservation literature. It has been managed and published by the GCI since 1983, in association with the International Institute for Conservation of Historic and Artistic Works.

Scholarship

The GCI hosted five Getty conservation guest scholars in FY05.

Publications

Getty Publications released 9 new titles under the Getty Conservation Institute imprint, including works written by GCI scientists and experts that share research findings and disseminate new knowledge about conservation.

Each year, three issues of Conservation, the GCI newsletter, are distributed free of charge to approximately 8,000 international professionals in conservation and related fields and members of the public concerned about conservation

In Fall 2004, the GCI released a second bilingual printing of The Principles for the Conservation of Heritage Sites in China, a publication that resulted from the GCI's work developing and promoting national guidelines for conservation and management of cultural heritage sites in China. The new printing reverses the language order to make it more easily accessible to conservation professionals in China. The revised version is available in hard copy free of charge from the GCI and is also posted on the Getty's Web site.

In this period, the GCI organized its second Directors' Retreat for the Advancement of Conservation Education in partnership with the Centre for Cultural Materials Conservation, University of Melbourne. The program focused on conservation education in the Asia-Pacific region and was developed in consultation with the Heritage Conservation Centre of Singapore. Twenty-five participants attended, representing 13 countries: Australia, East Timor, Hong Kong (China), Laos, Macau, Malaysia, New Zealand, Papua New Guinea, Philippines, Singapore, Taiwan, United States and Vanuatu.

The GCI offered an advanced international course in architectural conservation, heritage recording, and information management, held at ICCROM headquarters in Rome.

THE J. PAUL GETTY MUSEUM

childhood in ancient Greece.

A wide variety of mostly free public programming was offered to support the exhibitions. Some, especially those designed for families, were available in English and Spanish. In this period, public programming included about 50 lectures and conferences, about 40 performances and film screenings, about 30 courses and demonstrations, a range of family activities, and about 50 gallery talks. This schedule included talks and lectures given by curators of each exhibition at the Getty Center; artist demonstrations; panel discussions bringing together artists, collectors, critics, curators, scholars, composers, and other art professionals; daylong Family Festivals; regular storytelling for children, family gallery tours and workshops; performance series such as Friday Nights at the Getty, Gordon Getty concerts featuring period music, Sounds of L.A., Summer Sessions, Garden Concerts for kids, and Selected Shorts, a series of short story readings presented by the J. Paul Getty Museum and produced by New York's Symphony Space.

Museum Conservation

The conservation professionals in the Museum's conservation departments—as well as a varying number of interns and other trainees, and guest conservators—perform a wide range of services. They support the Museum's effort to exhibit and interpret the collections now, and to preserve them for the enjoyment and education of future generations. Ongoing conservation work, including cleaning and repair, is carried out regularly on works in the Getty's collection, including all new acquisitions. In FY05, nine Museum guest scholars were hosted by the Museum's conservation department.

The Museum's Paintings Conservation program continued to provide conservation services to other institutions free of charge, sometimes with the support of the Getty's Paintings Conservation Council, which helps to defray part of the expenses associated with transporting the works of art to the Getty Center for treatment. Works are always exhibited at the Getty Center before their return. Among the Paintings Conservation program projects undertaken in this period were:

- Study, repair, and cleaning of Giovanni Baglione's 1602 painting Divine Love Overcoming the World, the Flesh and the Devil, from the Staatliche Museum in Berlin.
- Continuing work on Jean-Baptiste Oudry's The Rhinoceros (1749) and The Lion (1752) from the Staatliches Museum Schwerin, Germany.
- Continuing work on six paintings from the Kröller-Müller Museum in Otterlo, the Netherlands, including works by van Gogh and Renoir.
- Continuing work on two paintings by Adolphe-William Bouguereau, including Virgin of the Angels, from the Forest Lawn Museum in Glendale, California.

Getty Publications released 35 new titles under the J. Paul Getty Museum imprint, including works written by Museum curators and catalogues published to accompany Getty exhibitions.

Education

School Field Trips: The Getty Center welcomes about 90,000 students a year, with more than half from Title I schools in Los Angeles, whose trips are subsidized by the Getty. School group tours are offered year round. Guided and self-guided visits to the Getty Center are available to teachers and their K-12 classes (30% of school visits are guided). Teachers who want to lead their students through the galleries independently can do so after attending a free Teacher Orientation Workshop to help them build a lesson plan. For guided visits, teachers select from a list of themes and the Getty's gallery teacher (the Getty Center has 12) helps develop a lesson plan, which is reviewed with the classroom teacher ahead of time.

Getty Getaway Days: Three to four times a month, the Getty organizes free bus transportation to the Getty Center for students and their families, focusing on Title I schools. About 25 Getty Getaway Days visits, welcoming over 6,000 visitors, are offered a year.

Teacher Resources: Teachers can go to www getty.edu to take advantage of the Getty's teacher resources for free, including a searchable database of over 100 lesson plans.

The Getty also offers free professional development workshops for teachers that adhere to the national and California state content standards for grades K-12. They include a two-year course to introduce teachers to attraction for dayslaning attached.

to introduce teachers to strategies for developing students' skills in language and visual arts, and a program in which Getty education staff visit the classrooms of ESL teachers from adult schools in the Los Angeles area to train them to use the Getty's ESL curriculum in their lessons.

gallery tours, musical performances, and lectures focusing on the relationship between art and music held at the Getty Center and MOCA.

The new, redesigned Family Room opened to the public in August 2004, featuring interactive activities for families to play and learn together, developed by a collaborative team composed of experts at the Getty and Predock_Frane Architects. A related two-day symposium, From Content to Play, was developed and presented by the education department in June 2005. It brought together professionals whose work focuses on or informs interactive spaces designed specifically for family audiences in art and history museums.

The Getty partnered with Pasadena-based Numedeon, Inc., a specialist in Web-based educational communities, to bring the Getty Museum to the virtual world of Whyville at www.whyville.net This partnership brings art games based on the Getty's collections into Whyville, which has over one million "citizens," mostly between the ages of 8 and 14 from around the world.

THE GETTY RESEARCH INSTITUTE

The Getty Research Institute (GRI) is dedicated to increasing knowledge and understanding about art and its history through advanced research. It serves scholars worldwide through residencies, fellowships, online resources, a body of scholarly databases, and the Research Library at the Getty Research Institute, one of the largest art libraries in the world with over 900,000 volumes as well as special collections relevant to the history of art, archaeology, and architecture from antiquity to the present. In FYO5, the special collections expanded with new acquisitions, including the Marcia Tucker papers, with documents covering the career of this renowned critic, curator, and art historian; and the archive of the renowned architectural photographer and Los Angeles resident Julius Shulman, whose work put L.A. architecture on the map.

Access to the collections and scholarship conducted at the Research Institute is also made available at the local, national, and international levels through active publications and exhibition programs and public programming that includes lectures, performances, and symposia.

Research and Scholarship

Each year, the Research Institute gathers together a distinguished group of international scholars, artists, and writers, as well as promising pre- and postdoctoral fellows, to pursue individual and collaborative projects, often built around one common theme, which in FY05 was "Duration." Participants pursued their individual projects, conversed in the weekly working group, attended lectures and other events, took part in workshops, and informally shared ideas with staff and one another. In FY05, there were 8 Getty scholars, 15 Visiting scholars (working at the GRI for one to three months), 4 predoctoral fellows, and 3 postdoctoral fellows.

Drawing on the Getty's pool of scholars and experts, the GRI's annual Consortium Seminar continued in FY05 with a new topic taught by a GRI residential scholar. The seminar gives students at area universities the opportunity to study specialized topics that are not available anywhere else. It is open to graduate students at UC Irvine, UCLA; UC Riverside, UC Santa Barbara, and USC.

One of the GRI's key resources is the Research Library, which serves scholars and researchers inside and outside the Getty community. It is open to outside patrons more than 54 hours a week, providing access to research tools, databases of cultural information, and vocabulary tools—online, on CD-ROM, and in print. Among the databases available free of charge at the GRI are the Bibliography of the History of Art database and the Avery Index to Architecture Periodicals, which are updated with new entries regularly. The Library routinely waives reproduction fees for images in scholarly publications, and donates auction catalogues to libraries.

Exhibitions and Scholarly/Public Programming

The GRI presented four exhibitions at the Getty Center during FY05. In addition, two external exhibitions were presented—one at the Skirball Cultural Center and the other at Los Angeles Contemporary Exhibitions—curated by the department of contemporary programs and research at the GRI. Both were accompanied by special programming, including film screenings, lectures, and live performances.

In FY05, scholarly and public programming included approximately seven lectures (related to GRI exhibitions, research projects, and the collections) and eight Works in Progress lectures (a regular series featuring presentations by local scholars to promote discussion of current topics). There were also three panel discussions, which brought together artists, filmmakers, composers, scholars, critics, collectors, and other art professionals to discuss select topics ranging from artists' books to modern art in the sixties; and a poetry reading that explored how poetry changes the way we experience time, related to the year's research topic "Duration." In addition, approximately seven film screenings were presented, including a discussion and screening of works by avant-garde filmmaker Ernie Gehr, and a presentation of works by pioneers of Brazilian video art.

of Contemporary Art, Los Angeles (MOCA). The two-day event took place in October 2004, examining the affinities between vanguard artists working in South America, Europe, and the United States in the 1960s and 1970s. It included a panel discussion at LACMA, and a conference and performance at the Getty Center.

The GRI co-sponsored an international symposium with The Huntington Library, Art Collections, and Botanical Gardens. Held in December 2004, the two-day symposium brought together noted scholars to examine how Chinese and Japanese gardens have functioned as sites of creative individual and social energy.

Work continued on On the Record Art in L.A., 1945–1980, a project coordinated by the GRI's department of contemporary programs and research to document the history of art in Los Angeles. Through the Getty Foundation, the effort entails partnerships with local institutions to create a common archival database.

Work continued on the USC-Getty Program in the History of Collecting and Display, designed to train graduate students in art history to approach their work with the history of collecting in mind. As part of this program, two graduate students from USC have been working as research assistants at the GRI on projects related to The Project for the Study of Collecting and Provenance. Related programming efforts included a series of public forums, panel discussions, and professional workshops organized jointly by the USC-Getty program, the GRI, and California Institute of Technology.

Publications

The GRI has four series imprints released under Getty Publications. These works advance critical inquiry into the creation and reception of all forms of visual art, promote experimental and multidisciplinary research, and open unexpected avenues of understanding. Along with series imprints, the Research Institute publishes exhibition catalogs and volumes focused on the collections and programs, art documentation, and electronic resources.

THE GETTY FOUNDATION

The Getty Foundation provides support to institutions and individuals internationally, funding a diverse range of projects that promote the understanding and conservation of the visual arts. The foundation furthers the work of all Getty programs.
